

Six Reasons Our Huge Fabric Wall is Crucial to Your Room

1. You need a huge choice

When you get down to the colors that you can actually use in your room, you're left with too few choices. There will be only a very few that work for you. There won't be any that really light up your design, that really make you smile.

2. You need both basic and decorative fabrics

You will use basic fabric designs to build a design and color foundation. Decorative fabric designs will light the fire of your room. Plus, you need lots of Decorative to choose from! A large selection of swatches gives you both.

3. You need large fabric samples

You need to see the entire fabric pattern: how it varies, how it centers, what the overall impact is. A small sample will fail you. In fact, small samples can be downright deceptive.

4. You need to touch the fabrics

The "hand" of the fabric is so important to judging the comfort. You need to see how the fabric texture reflects the light. Does the color change in different light? Does the direction of the weave change the color of the fabric appearance?

5. You need to drape them

You'll find yourself draping and overlaying multiple fabrics on each other - creating a bit of a collage. How do they work together? What jumps out? How do they tell your story?

6. You need a constantly evolving color selection

This is a fashion thing. Our vendors work so hard to introduce new fabrics throughout the year. Though many aspects of design are timeless, new is good too.
